DEDODE FOR 1000

Coles Pasha, Director of Prisons, reports a Color Pasha, Director of Prisons, reports as follows to the Minister of the Interior:—

1 have the bonour to submit my Annual Statistics and other information for the year 1906. Administration fleeper with the usual Statistics and other information for the year 1906 and 1907 prisons during the year. Of these 29,668 were males and 4,825 females compared with 94,518 males and 4,825 females compared with 94,518 or 1908 prisons during the year. Of these 29,668 were males and 4,825 females committed to prison formation of the prison during the past two years is very marked, 9,500 females having been committed in 1904. 9,500 females having been committed in 1904 and 1909 prisons of the prison of the trial" is also the largest number recorded during the past five years. It is very remark-able too that notwithstanding that the number of prisoners committed in detault has dropped from 40.151 in 1902 to 8.761 in 1906 the of pisioners committed in detault has dropped from 40,151 in 1902 to 8,761 in 1906 the number committed in default by the Cairo Courts are somewhat in excess of those com-mitted in 1905. The absence of locusts during 1906 accounts for the decrease in committals by Administra-tive Courts as the Decree relating to the destruction of hoursts is administered by such

2019. prisoners were released on condi-tional likerty compared with 2,900 during 1905. The number of such prisoners reincarcer-ated has dropped from 42 in 1905 to 8 during the year under report. Of these 8 were released during 1906 and 3 in previous years. I question if more astifactory results are obtained in any other country and doubtless Mudirs (no prisoner can be released without the Mudir agreeting) will take credit to themselves and the country and doubtless that the formal prisoner can be released without the Mudir agreeting will take credit to themselves and quote these agures as showing the discrimina-tion they exceive in sanctioning such release. The control of the control of the control of the theory with convicts who have been sentenced to long terms and who have qualified by good conduct in prinon for conditional release and II may observe that this Department never asks for the release of an old offender unless he has not expected as the control of the control of the management of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the principles of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the state of the control of the control of the search of the control of tion they exercise in sanctioning such release But I would ask Mudirs to be a little mon released without trial by the Parquet or acquitted by the Courts (86% in 1905) and 4% were awaiting trial at the close of the year (4% in 1905). In the matter of release without trial or acquittal by the courts, the least satis-factory results are reported from Damanhour and Minieh with 67% and 64%, respectively so committed before trial, 50% were disposed of in 14 days (45% in 1905), 40% took from 14 days to 1 month (28% in 1905), 12% from 1 to ths (10% in 1905) and 6% n months.

The number of prisoners who appealed against their sentences (Table V) has decreased, being 11,128 compared with 12,914 in 1905. Of these 16% were released (19% in 1905). The period these prisoners passed whilst under appeal has ceased to interest this Department, or Siberia. as prisoners appealing are now dealt with as

Of these 350 were sentenced to penal servitude (1,107 in 1905), 150 to detention (148 in 1905), 23,905 to imprisonment with labour (2,1399 in 1905), 31,737 to simple imprisonment 24,383 in 1905 and 13,597 to imprisonment in default (16,776 in 1905).

Cairo Courts than in 1905.

12 persons were excented during the year against 20 in 1905. Prior to the establishment of Assize Courts, I showed that from the time of arrest to the execution the average period was 8 months (see Prisons Report for 1900). Of the men executed during the year, the average time from arrest to execution was 5 months, the shortest to execution was 5 months, the shortest neriod being 3 months and 15 days and th period being 3 months and 15 days and the longest 9 months and 21 days. In calculating the periods of imprisonment, prisoners sentenced in default have been included. If as heat year we eliminate prisoners or sentenced, the proportion of total sentenced to substantive sentence total sentenced to substantive sentence of 52% were for less than one month against 50% so sentenced in 1905. This large percentage of short sentences is all the more markables at the Judicial Statistics show a very great reduction in the lesser délit which are as a rule disposed of by shor whiten are as a low-sentences.

The total number of old offenders reconvicted during the year is shewn as 4,944 compared with 5,882 in 1905 and 7,295 in 1904. A first sight it would appear that the number of old offenders is rapidly diminishing, but as I pointed out last year, this apparent diminution is owing to the this apparent diminution is owing to committal warrants of the Merkez Courts ignoring previous convictions. This is clearly the cause, as if we only take offences against property (dealt with for the most part by the Summary and not the Merkez Courts) we find 2,860 reconvictions against 2,847 1905.
The number of old offenders sent to Penal

The number of old offenders sent to Penal Servitade under Art. 50 has dropped from 333 in 1905 to 224 in 1906 and possibly this may mean that the number of this particular class is limited and that the majority are accounted for as either undergoing penal servitudes or police supervision after penal servitudes or police supervision after penal servitude or police supervision after penal servitude sent altopher confirm this supposition, as the figures show that of the 1,039 old offenders who had been previoudly "Have times" in prison for offences against property 228 or 21 %, only were sentenced to penal servitude, 128 or 27 % getting six months or less imprisonment. Of course it does not follow imprisonment. Of course it does not follow servinde in prescribed by the possibly in many servinde in prescribed but possibly in many that all these prisoners come under the dei-nition of an old offender for whom penal servitude is prescribed but possibly in many instances lighter sentences have been awarded when penal servitude might have been the punishment inflies. The question of the best means of dealing with incorrigible has been fully 'discussed during the year. This Department urged that Art. 50 of the Code should be modified, an determinate sentence in an adult Refor atory being substituted for penal servitude be followed by exile to the remote Soudan hould the Reformatory treatment fa ervitude being reserved for the to get judges to agree to an indeterminate sentence especially as there is as yet no con-clusive proof that penal servitude has failed cusive proof that penial sorvitate has tailed with such offenders. No decision has as yet been arrived at, but I believe that I am correct in stating that the proposal is to prescribe a limited period (5 years) in an adult Reforma-tory as an alternative punishment to penial servitade to be followed by an indeterminate servitude to be followed by an indeterminate sentence to a Reformatory should penal ser vitude or a limited period in a Reformatory changle field. It may be asked why measures of a Reformatory character cannot be introduced into a penal servitude establishment, but required as such establishments are in Egypt it is, if for, almost impossible to do as of On the other hand the magistrates may rest assured that the first year passed at a Reformatory will be quiteas deterrent to the average fellah as penal servitude.

These figures would lead one to suppose that the youthful criminal is rapidly becoming virtuous but the explanation is simply that the Police have at last learned to deal with children in a more rational manner.

Detailed statistics showing the working of the Reformatory are given in the appendix. 87 boys were committed to this establishment compared with 104 in 1909. Of these. 56 % (76 % in 1903) were first offenders and 81 bad committed theft in some form or other; 84 % influence and become Aid Societies for released prisoners generally.

A very considerable reduction has taken place in the number of persons who elected to labour in lieu of imprisonment being 11,376 compared with 18,101 in 1905 and as fines are compared with 18,101 in 1905 and as fines are now largely paid, this reduction is so far satis-factory, but in some prisons (notably Cairo) I think a little more pressure would ensure the fine being paid or a day's work performed and thus imprisonment in default vovided. There has been a decrease in both minor and major offences committed by prisoners whilst undergoing sentence the number being whilst undergoing sentence the number being 7,897 (8,652 or in 1905) and 210 (319 in 1905) respectively. Assaults on prison officials have still further decreased from 164 in 1905 to 119 during 1906.

Perhaps one of the le during 1900.

Perhaps one of the least satisfactory features of prison administration in Egypt is the large unmber of escepes annually recorded. Extra unural labour is to a certain extent the cause of these seespes, but the warden area, I regret of these seespes, but the warden area, I regret of the control of the contr other prisons.

The vital statistic have been fully discussed by Dr. Kirkon in his report and the Medical Officers of the Department are to be congratuated on their year's work, as the mortality record is the bowset yet reached, vir.—119 per mills on average population (1'4 per mille on a submissions). The mortality at Aboo Zashal the lowest (4'2) and officers of the department of the de die.

Judging from the mortality distribution for Judging from the mortality distribution for the past four years, August, is the healthies and December the least healthy month. As regards labour, prisoners making ooi rand oor mats appear to be the least healthy but here it must be borne in mind that weak and sickly prisoners are largely selected for this light form of labour.
